

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR ASSESSOR.

To the Voters of Warren County:
I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Assessor of Warren county, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention.
J. H. HILL.

FOR TREASURER.

To the Voters of Warren County:
I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Treasurer of Warren county, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention.
F. G. HENDERSON.

FOR SHERIFF.

To the Voters of Warren County:
I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Warren county, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention.
JOHN M. CAMERON.

FOR SHERIFF.

To the Voters of Warren County:
I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Warren county, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention.
CHAS. B. ALLEN.

Mortuary Report.

Aug. 2—George Herman, 10 years, brain fever, Levee street.
Aug. 3—Uriah French, 74 years, paralysis, Grove street.
Aug. 5—Albert Simon Bruner, 3 months 10 days, marasmus, Main street.
Aug. 6—Sidney Stein, 2 months 9 days, marasmus, Cherry street.
Aug. 8—W. V. McCray, 52 years, congestive chill, Main street. Gus Cuneo, 54 years, abscess liver, Cherry and Grove streets.

COLORED.

Aug. 2—George Brooks, 42 years, organic disease heart, City Hospital.
Aug. 3—Chas. Williams, 48 years, chronic hepatitis, Harrison street. Sarah Brown, 41 years, heart disease, Clay street. Verdict coroner's jury.
Aug. 4—Julius Sims, 23 days, inflammation bowels, Locust street.
Aug. 5—William Roach, 25 years, typhoid fever, City Hospital.
Aug. 6—Shelby Ford, 43 years, ascites and general debility, City Hospital.
Aug. 7—Infant of Phoebe Adams, 1 day, "colic," Levee street.

H. P. BRISBANE, M. D.

Health officer.

Nervous Debilitated Man.

You are allowed a free trial of thirty days of the use of Dr. Dye's Celebrated Voltaic Belt with Electric Suspensory Appliances, for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Debility, loss of Vitality and Manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also, for many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred. Illustrated pamphlet, with full information, terms etc., mailed free by addressing Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich.

100-10-10-10-10

A Water Spout Does Immense Damage.

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

WILL YOU SUFFER with dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by Hardaway & Cassell. 1

The Union Pacific Reducing the Hours for Work.

OMAHA, Aug. 12.—The Union Pacific railroad has issued an order which went into effect yesterday, reducing the number of working hours in its Omaha shop from ten to eight hours a day, and cutting down work on Saturday to four hours. The same reduction is to be made in the shops at Kansas City and Denver. There is considerable dissatisfaction among the men, about 1,500 of whom are affected by the order in Omaha. The company claims it had to retrench and rather than discharge a large number of men concluded to reduce the number of working hours, so that all could be employed. The cut amounts to about 20 per cent.

A Remarkable Escape.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey, of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give her no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 pounds in a few months.

Free trial bottle of this certain cure for all lung diseases at Hardaway & Cassell's Drug Store. Large bottles $1.

Cholera Reported at Odessa. VIENNA, Aug. 12.—Dispatches from Odessa state that several cases of sickness resembling cholera have occurred in the Odessa suburbs, and that in consequence all arrivals from Mar-selles have been prohibited.

The Grant Monument Fund in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—At a meeting of the Grant monument fund, board today, the different subscription books were examined and it was ascertained that the subscriptions have already exceeded the sum originally aimed at, forty thousand dollars. As subscriptions are still being received at various newspaper offices, and as a benefit is to be given at one of the theaters Thursday afternoon, from which large returns are expected, the fund will probably far exceed the intended sum before the books are closed.

The Cause of Consumption.

Scrofula, manifesting itself in blotches, pimples, eruptions, salt-rheum, and other blemishes of the skin, is but too apt by and by to infect the delicate tissues of the lungs also, and result in ulceration thus ending in consumption. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will meet and vanquish the enemy in its stronghold of the blood and cast it out of the system. All druggists.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, God, in his infinite wisdom, saw fit to take from us on the 31st of July, A. D. 1885, Capt. Tom Smith, who so faithfully served his "Line" and friends:
Resolved, First that by his death we have lost a true friend and a Captain, to our interests one obliging almost to a fault.
Resolved, Second, that we extend to his sorrowing family our heartfelt sympathy in their great affliction.

The storm has changed into a calm
At His command and will;
So that the waves, which raged before,
Now quiet are, and still.
G. J. RED,
R. V. PLUMMER,
WALTER PARTEE,
M. A. BELMONT,
and other friends.

PALMETTO, YAZOO RIVER, Aug. 7, 1885.

For Sale.

One 50 H. P. Stationary Engine.
One 35 H. P. Stationary Engine.
One 70 H. P. Stationary Engine.
One 100 H. P. Stationary Engine.
Two Boilers 54x14 feet, with 3 in. tubes.
All Second Hand but in Good Order.
Address, CLARKSON & WAGNER,
Dealers in Machinery and Mill Supplies.
100-10-10-10-10

$200,000 in presents given away. 8 and 10 cents postage, and by mail you will get a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own homes. For a full list of all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALL & CO., Portland, Maine.

100-10-10-10-10

Non-Resident Notice.

The State of Mississippi.—No. 1,739.
To W. G. Linn, Alice J. Thompson, Celia Kate Jones and the unknown heirs of Joseph K. Linn deceased, Linn Murray and Isabel Murray minors, and Joseph W. Murray, their guardian, Mattie Peabody, a minor, and John Peabody, her guardian, Neale J. Furber, Laura J. Bentley Lloyd, Ella Bentley Lloyd, Linn Bentley, Minnie Bentley, and the unknown heirs of E. W. Linn deceased, the defendants.
YOU ARE COMMANDED TO APPEAR before the Chancery Court of the county of Warren, in said State, at noon on the first Monday of August, 1885, to defend the suit in said court of G. M. M. Linn, wherein you are defendants.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught hold of the wagon box as it was floating away, and climbed into it. The box was carried down to White river, where it struck against a bank, and the woman succeeded in catching hold of some willows, and drawing herself out. She was dressed in nothing but her night clothes. The third child, aged about four years, was carried down by flood and was found alive, clinging to some debris the next morning. White river, near the track of the flood, was strewn with dead horses, harness and grading tools, while here and there was found the body of some unfortunate grader.

100-10-10-10-10

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—Advices from Deadwood says a water spout struck Lone Tree creek, near Chadron, Dakota, last Thursday, flooding the Valley, drowning a farmer and two children and a number of horses, besides washing away several hundred yards in length of a newly finished railroad grade. A family of immigrants, consisting of a man, his wife and three children were camped on the creek, when the water struck them. The woman caught